Proxy Marriages

What is a Proxy Marriage?

A proxy marriage, or marriage by proxy, is when somebody stands in place of either the bride or groom, when either the bride or groom could not be physically present for the ceremony. Only four states allow proxy marriages: California, Colorado, Montana, and Texas. With the exception of Montana, each of these states require one of the parties to appear before the civil authorities. Montana, however, allows a “Double Proxy” marriage, where proxies may appear, in place of both the bride and groom.

Will my State recognize a proxy marriage?

Yes. A marriage valid in one state is valid in all states. A proxy marriage would be valid even if proxy marriages could not be performed under the laws of the state granting legal recognition.
